Activity 1a: Intersections

Whether we realize it or not, our daily lives are impacted by vital industries and their services. What starts as an idea in one's mind may one day turn into a product experienced by billions. Take Apple's iPhone for example. In fact, there are several stages between concept development (an idea) and the end-user product (what you receive). For example, Apple's engineers think about the type of material they will use; supply chain managers decide how they will transport and get their products to you; and marketing managers develop unique advertising to catch your attention.

In order to understand and appreciate an industry, and the careers available within it, we must first explore how these products and services impact our lives, our families, and our communities. During this activity, we will take a closer look at the “Nursing at Every Level” section. Review the careers and then answer the following questions.

Use the note-catcher on the next page to capture your responses.

Activity 2: Civic Redevelopment Project

Directions:

This activity is an exciting way to apply your newly-gained understanding of the Automotive/Transportation sector. During this activity, you will assume the role of the assigned career path. Read the prompt below, complete the questions below, and document your proposed solution in the Civic Redevelopment Plan.

Prompt:

New York City's Economic Development Enterprise is hosting a design competition to strengthen vital infrastructure in order to better withstand future challenges and crises. You are a Director of Nursing and have been chosen to be part of the team that will design healthcare systems and solutions for your neighborhood (your zip code). Though your blueprint may address city-wide needs, it must address the needs of your zip code. Using your experience and knowledge of healthcare, please propose a system or policy initiative to help the City prevent and/or better respond to future city-wide emergencies. Use the Civic Redevelopment Plan to document your proposed solution.

Consider the following questions while designing your proposed redevelopment project:

- How long will it take to implement this project design
- Does this project design build off existing systems or is this something new?
- What other professionals (if any) will I need to consult for project completion?

Use the note catcher below to guide your design project efforts.
