Activity 1a: Intersections

Whether we realize it or not, our daily lives are impacted by vital industries and their services. What starts as an idea in one's mind may one day turn into a product experienced by billions. Take Apple's iPhone for example. In fact, there are several stages between concept development (an idea) and the end-user product (what you receive). For example, Apple's engineers think about the type of material they will use; supply chain managers decide how they will transport and get their products to you; and marketing managers develop unique advertising to catch your attention.

In order to understand and appreciate an industry, and the careers available within it, we must first explore how these products and services impact our lives, our families, and our communities. During this activity, we will take a closer look at the “Nursing at Every Level” section. Review the careers and then answer the following questions.

Use the note-catcher on the next page to capture your responses.
